HOME GROUPS

INTRODUCTION

The goal of these studies in the Daniel is to promote good observation of the text, individual participation and discovery, with each person discovering for themselves what they find God saying in the text and then having a discussion in a group setting to challenge and encourage one another.

There will be observation, interpretation and application questions to help you to understand, explore and apply what is discovered in the passages.

Preparation

As you approach the study in preparation for Home Group, consider the following:

PRAY Ask God to reveal the messages of his Word to you through his Holy Spirit. Ask him for wisdom and understanding.

LISTEN Listen to previous week sermon live or online at: www.hamiltonroadbaptist.com/teaching.

READ Read the passage through a couple of times; even try reading it aloud to yourself. You can also listen through the Bible App on your phone or online.

ANSWER Answer the questions for that week's study to the best of your ability.

PRAY Thank God for his Word and ask him to help you to remember and apply the things you have discovered.

Other Ideas for Home Groups:

Forming connections:

- Form a WhatsApp Group on your mobile phones to keep in touch and to pass on group prayer requests and answers to prayer.
- Consider inviting someone who is not in a home group to your group.

Home Groups do not need to be restricted to meeting once a fortnight for a few hours. You could consider the following outside the scheduled meetings:

- Meet with a few members of your home groups to pray together;
- Meet as women of your home group;
- Meet as men of your home group;
- Meet on Sunday nights after church for some food.
- Meet at the prayer meeting and then go for coffee or an ice cream
